OTTAWA WARD

ALD. NAPOLEON A. BORDE-LEAU, candidate for aldermanic honors in Ottawa ward, is a native son of the Capital and was born in By town days in a house on St. Andrew street, fifty-five years ago. He is one of that kind of French Canadians who make friends readily and is well liked by all who know and is well liked by all who know

For many years he was a member of the furniture firm of Harris and of the furniture firm of Harris and Barry, but a few months ago he branched out for himself in the same line of business and has a store at 491 Sussex street, which is largely patronized. He is a married man with seven children and a supporter of the separate schools. A prominent member of the French Canadian Institute, one of his main hobbies is the study of Canadian history, particularly of the old days of the French regime in Canada. He is also a member of the French Canadian Artisans and is to be seen at most of the amateur
